

New Year's Eve Ball Tickets Being Sold Now in Union

Reservations at Normandie Roof to Be Given to Queen

It has just been announced that reservations for two at the Normandie Roof on New Year's Eve with all expenses paid have been made for the freshmen who will be crowned queen at the Arts and Science New Year's Eve Dance.

Arts and Science president, Len Harbour, will have the honor of crowning the queen. Among those on hand to do the judging for the contest will be Barbara Hodgson, who was elected queen at last year's dance.

Tickets for the event, which are being sold at $1.50 a couple, are now on sale in the Union Tuck Shop and can be obtained from Bob Frazier out at Dawson.

The entire McGill Union building will be open for the dance which is scheduled to last from 10 p.m. to 3 a.m. on New Year's Eve.

Guests at the dance will include Bob Frazier, who is president of the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society out at Dawson; Bob Gill, president of the S.E.C.; Jack Crepeau, McGill Union president; and Joan Radley, president of the Women's Union.

House Manager for the occasion will be Neils Nielson, Second Year Artsman. The committee in charge of the dance is headed by Harry Miller, while his staff include Fay Rodriguez, in charge of tickets, Joan O'Connell who is looking after the catering, and Doreen Fairman, who is co-chairman of the Decoration Committee.

These Westerners will supply the music for the dance, while an ample supply of horns, whistles, etc., will be distributed to add to the music at the celebration of the new year. Harry Miller has announced that his committee is devising a special and unusual method to hail the new year.

The Union will be bedecked with Christmas trees and streamers to add to the festive spirit of the occasion. Extensive plans are also being made to decorate the Ballroom, Reading Room, and Grillroom, which will be open to all.

Students are advised to buy their tickets early as they are selling fast. The dance is open to all McGill students — they need not necessarily be registered in the faculty of Arts and Science. Dress for the dance is optional.

NFCUS Meeting Called For Thursday Afternoon

A general meeting of the McGill Committee of the National Federation of Canadian University Students has been called for 5.00 p.m. on Thursday, December 16th in the New Room of the McGill Union.

The main item on the agenda will be a discussion of the coming Christmas Conference of National N.F.C.U.S. This conference, the 12th annual conference which N.F.C.U.S. has held since its inception, will take place at the University of Montreal from December 28th to 31st, 1948. There are a number of items on the agenda which should be of interest to McGill students, and it is hoped that anyone interested in these subjects will turn out to the meeting in order to express their opinions. All members of the Students' Society are automatically members of the McGill N.F.C.U.S. Committee.

One of the subjects to be discussed at the conference is the matter of student exchanges. This includes regional exchange within Canada, Canadian-American exchange, and international exchanges. The McGill Committee has been working on the problem of international student exchange and a lengthy report has been drawn up on the matter.

Relations with I.S.S. and the Canadian I.S.S. Committee will also

P.C. Club To Show Movies

Pictures Taken at Fall Conventions of All Parties

A showing of films of the three national political conventions will take place today at 1.00 p.m. sharp in the New Room of the McGill Union. This showing is being sponsored by the Progressive Conservative Club and the members of all other political clubs are invited as well as all interested students.

The showing will include films of the C.C.F., Liberal and Progressive Conservative National Conventions, all of which took place this past summer. The C.C.F. Convention, which took place in Winnipeg, was the first in the series of political gatherings, and was followed by the Liberal and Progressive Conservative Conventions, in that order, both of which took place in Ottawa. These films, EYEWITNESS No. 6, No. 7, and No. 8, are on loan from the National Film Board, who are also supplying the projector and projectionist. They have a running length of eleven minutes each, and so the showing should fit nicely into the noon-hour period if it commences sharp on time.

These films include the highlights of each of the national political conventions, and should prove of very great interest to all students, whether members of political clubs or not. The showing is being sponsored by the Progressive Conservative Club in the belief that a better knowledge of the workings of political parties will contribute to a greater understanding of and interest in politics on the McGill campus.

The executive of the Progressive Conservative Club wish to emphasize that the showing of these films will start at 1.00 p.m. sharp in order to ensure that it will be completed before 2 o'clock classes. All students on the campus are invited, and lunches may be eaten during the showing, as long as this is done in a manner which will not distract the attention of those present from the films.

Second Radio Forum Broadcast Last Night

"That the achievements of Science have merely created the illusion of progress," was the topic of the second in a series of McGill Radio Forums conducted between professors and students over station CJAD last night.

Speaking for the affirmative were Peter Sinclair and Daniel Morris, both Arts students; and for the negative, Professor Donald Mordell of Mechanical Engineering, and Professor John Stanley of Zoology.

Peter Sinclair opened the discussion by saying that he and his colleague believed that we mean progress in individual responsibility and judgment. To put it another way he said, "Has man, under the impact of scientific learning become more considerate, more just toward his fellow man? Has he made the best intellectual and moral judgments he might be capable of?"

After giving several points to support his views he summed up his argument by saying, "It is not that man today is less moral; it is only that he is no less selfish and basely ambitious than his medieval brother. Modern science, however, has given him the technical skill and implements with which to tyrannize his fellow man with the most deadly brutal efficiency ever devised."

Professor Mordell replying in the negative said that Science has created the means which make it possible for moral values to be developed by providing means of recording, observing, and transmitting events. Science has given these opportunities, "Has man made use of them?" he asked. He said that man had made some use of these opportunities, and as evidence of that he cited the League of Nations and United Nations Organization which evidence a decline in nationalism.

Daniel Morris concluded the argument for the affirmative by saying that it had not been their intention to blame the scientists for the state of the world. "What we have attempted to point out," he said, "is that science through no fault of its own creates the illusion of progress where there is none." He said that they had attempted to show that progress means a change in the individual which will in turn change a social order into a peaceful one. We have moral and political bankruptcy amidst a world where natural invention is profuse and therefore, they were of the opinion that the achievements of science merely create the illusion of progress and not progress itself.

Professor Stanley concluding the discussion in the negative agreed that although no thinking person would deny that what we have made of the gifts of science is an illusion, it is also to some extent true that science had progressed in spite of man, and not because of him. He believed that much genuine progress had been made, although we may have to search for it beneath a veneer of modern trivia.

He said that the ultimate desirable goal of a civilization is a set of conditions in which its citizens have security, justice, good housing, good food and medical care, and freedom to act and to think, consistent with sufficient regulation to foster the common good. In such an environment man is free

Papineau Cup Finals Today

Gross and Phillips Will Debate on War

Today in the Union Ball Room at 1 p.m. Doug Gross will meet Sidney Phillips in the Papineau Cup finals. Gross, last year a finalist in the contest for the Bovey Shield; and Phillips, a third year Law student, were chosen as the best from a field of thirteen who took part in the semi-finals last Thursday.

The Papineau Cup competition is a new annual event at McGill. The trophy is awarded to the best public speaker in the faculties of Arts and Law who participates in open competition. For the final a highly contro-versal subject has been chosen for debate. The topic is "Resolved that the Second World War was fought in vain." Sidney Phillips will uphold the affirmative of the subject; and Doug Gross will argue in favour of the negative.

Both speakers proved in the semi-finals that they are capable of stating their case eloquently and effectively.

Acadians See Political Clash

Coldwell and Drew Start Fireworks At Symposium

Wolville, Dec. 10.—(CUP)—Acadia University at Wolville, N.S., which has no political clubs on the campus, today played host to three political "big guns" from the three major parties. These men spoke from the same platform in a special symposium arranged for the student body.

M. J. Coldwell, George Drew, and Douglas C. Abbott, who are present this week in the Digby-Annapolis-Kings riding for the federal by-election campaign, spoke for their respective parties. The seat of Digby-Annapolis-Kings was recently vacated by the Hon. J. L. Hilsley.

Those students who had hoped to see some fireworks displayed at this symposium were not disappointed. When Dr. Watson Kirkconnell introduced the speakers as 'political lions who had come to roar for Acadia students,' he made a gross understatement, as was evidenced later on in the afternoon by the clash between Mr. Coldwell and Col. Drew.

The biggest hand of the afternoon was given to the Progressive Conservative candidate in the riding, George Nowlan of Wolville, a graduate, lecturer, and member of the Board of Governors of Acadia University, when he made a very timely entrance late in the afternoon during Mr. Abbott's remarks.

Attendance at the university does not constitute the "ordinary residence" necessary to qualify as a voter, students were advised. This ruling, however, does not apply to married students who make Wolville their home during their years of study at Acadia.

"What the outcome of the election will be is not known, but a large Nowlan (the P.C. candidate) vote is indicated. Whether it will be enough to wrest the constituency from the Liberal ranks remains to be seen," the Acadia Atheneum said recently.

When one person was asked who would win, he replied: "Whoever gets the most vote, I suppose." Since the Presidential upset in the United States, that seems to be the safest answer.

NOTICE

The Board of Governors at their last meeting decided that the following charges be levied on tardy students who do not comply with the health regulations of the University.

$2.00—For all students who fail to keep the first appointment for a physical and X-ray examination.
$5.00—Will be charged when such examination has to be carried out after failure of the student to keep the second appointment.

Undergraduate Engineers Operate Own Bookservice

The Engineering Undergraduate Society operates a bookservice so that student can purchase their required texts at a price considerably below the public retail price. This saves students a considerable amount of money over a period of four or five years. This is made possible because the bookservice can purchase large quantities of texts at wholesale prices, and since it is a non profit organization, can sell at cost plus a small margin for overhead. This margin is set by the society at ten per cent, and the service's expenses are required to be within that margin.

The working capital for the bookservice is provided for by the students themselves, who pay a ten dollar book service deposit on entering the faculty of Engineering. This deposit is refunded to the students when they graduate, or withdraw from the faculty.

It is the duty of the bookservice to supply all the required text books, and if possible, some reference books. Recently, it has adopted the policy of handling stationery supplies, and last session its addition was engineers supplies.

The bookservice is responsible to the University authorities, concerning its finance, and is directed by the Engineering Undergraduate Society, through a manager and a director. It is conducted on a daily basis, throughout the session. The daily hours are 10.00 a.m. until 3.00 p.m. This requires a permanent employee, since no engineering student has sufficient time to operate an almost full-time business.

Engineering students feel that the bookservice has been a worthwhile endeavour. They hope that some day, there will be a University bookservice on the campus.

Dr. Klibanski Tells of War

Gives Inside Dope 'To Historians At R.V.C.

The belief that Mussolini's attack on Greece was prompted by personal ambition and not by agreement with Hitler, was expressed by Dr. Klibanski, Professor of Philosophy at McGill in his address to a combined meeting of the R.V.C. and McGill Historical Societies in R.V.C. Common Room last night.

Italy's attack on Greece profoundly shaped and even determined the course of the Second World War more than any other single event except, perhaps, Hitler's attack upon Russia," he declared. Mussolini's attack upon Greece was against the wishes and without the knowledge of Hitler, he said. Hitler desired to maintain peace in the Balkans in order to protect his southern flank for his impending attack of Russia, the speaker emphasized.

"Italy's attack on Greece profoundly shaped and even determined the course of the Second World War more than any other single event, except, perhaps, Hitler's attack upon Russia," he declared. Due to the failure of the Italian attack, trained German troops had to be employed, thus delaying the subsequent attacks on Crete and Russia so that winter set in just before Hitler's troops reached Moscow.

The speaker was introduced by Murray Young, president of the Historical Society (McGill) and thanked by Eileen Thorsland, president of the R.V.C. Historical Society.

A-S Arranges First Trip to Water-works

On Wednesday, December 15th, all students are invited to visit the Atwater Division of the Montreal water-works. Transportation will be provided; a bus will leave the Arts Building at three o'clock.

This is the first of a series of plant and company tours being sponsored by Arts and Science, the number and extent of future visits to various plants depending on the enthusiasm and interest shown on Wednesday.

Places of interest to all are being selected by Graduate Don Smith, whose recommendations come from personal observations and previous visits. All those interested are requested to sign the list on the Arts Building notice board.

Mechanical Society Makes Plans for This Afternoon

The Mechanical Club has arranged another series of tours for its 4th year members. On this afternoon, at 2.00 p.m., three buses will line up outside of the Engineering Building and convey groups to Turner-Newall, General Steel Wares, and Dominion Engineering, respectively.

The Industrial Option, in charge of George Colford, is assigned to the Turner-Newall trip; the Middle Option, in charge of Ted Drake, will visit General Steel Wares; and the Mechanics of Machines Option will travel to the Dominion Engineering plant under the supervision of Joe Morton.

The Department of Mechanical Engineering considers these trips arranged by the Mechanical Club are very important from an educational viewpoint, and for the purposes of the current visits all lectures for the afternoon have been cancelled.

All members of the Club should observe closely the various processes involved so that, if called upon to make short addresses in class as was the case following the recent Shawinigan Falls, Cornwall and Sherbrooke trips, the same high standards will be maintained.

Dean's Notice

Mr. Lewis Mumford, distinguished American litterateur, sociologist and humanist, will deliver a University Lecture in Moyse Hall at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, December 15th. Mr. Mumford's lecture will be given under the auspices of the School of Architecture. His subject will be "The Impact of American Materialism on the Arts and Sciences." The lecture will be open to all members of the University and their friends. Mr. Mumford would like to receive written questions in advance of his meeting. Such questions may be left at Room 15, Arts Building, H. N. FIELDHOUSE, Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Science.

Westbourne, Man. — Five daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Chanler, pioneer residents of Westbourne, were reunited for a short visit after a separation of 20 years. The sisters are all married and have been living in different Western Canada communities.

McGill Stage Performers Get Many 'Elmer' Awards

Hollywood has its 'Oscars,' Broadway its 'Tonys,' and now McGill has its 'Elmers.' Hollywood presents its 'Oscars' at the Shrine Auditorium, McGill's 'Elmers' are presented at the local Shrine.

The initial presentation of "Elmers" took place last Saturday night at the Shrine following the performance of "The Beautiful People" by the Dramatic Production Courses. The awards were presented by Randy Phillips who stage-managed the production.

Many Awards

Following are the names of those who received 'Elmers' and the citations which accompanied the awards:—To Mr. Elmer Hall, "For conspicuous gallantry, and the best acting in any role during the year. To Mr. Frank Ford, "For the presentation of planks of pine in parallel perspective . . . with stained glass windows. To Mr. Creighton Douglas, "For quiet light shed upon darkened corners thus illuminating certain beautiful people, and for subdued sound scintillating suspicious silence." To Mrs. Creighton Douglas, "For the clarification of complexions, and careful composition of colorful costumes."

Eric Miller who played 'Harold,' received his award, "For the most significant role played in the 'grande maniere. An award "For

The first specifically Science "Gen Night" of the academic year is being held this evening at 8 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. This "Gen Night" will feature three men who are active in the industrial field as its speakers. S. G. Lipsett, Ph.D., Arthur D. Odell, Ph.D., and Charles Paton, B.Eng., will speak on chemistry, biochemistry and engineering respectively. Dr. Bruce Ross, assistant registrar, will be the chairman for the evening.

The speakers have expressed keen interest in the semi-vocational guidance work manifested in "Gen Nights" and have offered their services to the students of McGill on Tuesday evening.

Wide Interest As may be seen by the diverse activities of these men, this "Gen Night" will be of great interest to mechanical, metallurgical, electrical, and chemical engineers as well as general science students.

Dr. Odell, who received his Ph.D. in biochemistry from the University of Toronto in 1938, was a major in the Chemical and Biological Warfare Division of the Canadian Army and was awarded the Legion of Merit. Following the war, he returned to Charles E. Frost and Company, and is now their assistant director of research. He is specializing in research on sex hormones, vitamins, sulphonamides, publication and patents and chemotherapy.

Dr. S. G. Lipsett is a McGill Ph.D. graduate of 1947. He has been research chemist at J. T. Donald and Company since 1928. He highlighted his activities while at college by two expeditions into northern Manitoba, one of which was a Dominion Geological Survey.

Mr. Charles Paton, B.Eng. from McGill, graduated in 1935 and is now in the office of the Director of Operations of the Aluminum Company of Canada. Following the war, he went to Germany to make enquiries as to what progress Germany had made during the war concerning aluminum. Mr. Paton has also spent some time in metallurgical research with the Canadian Metallurgical Company in Toronto. He went to England in 1940 to inspect English aluminum methods. In 1941, he was appointed Operational Superintendent at Kingston.

A & S SPONSORS This first Science "Gen Night" is sponsored by the Educational Committee of Arts and Science. Refreshments will be served as usual at the end of the meeting.

sober propriety and sincere interpretation of an outstanding citation was awarded to Gerald McCaughy for his part of 'Dan.' Len Ashley who played 'Mr. Prim' received his award, "For retention of composure through calamitous catastrophes and the prevention of cruelty to animals." "For the sanctimonious portrayal of a distinguished inebriate whose collar would never stay right way round," an 'Elmer' was presented to Irving Simms.

Penny Hay was presented her award, "For doddering senility and the wonderful achievement of knitting no less than 32 sweaters, 3 afghans, and 14 pairs of socks, during rehearsals." "For child-like simplicity, uninvolved philosophy, paternal portrayal, and skilled forgery of various cheques" an award was made to Hugh Taschereau for his part of 'Jonah.' The twelfth award, "For lecherously lowering eye-lids, passionate portrayal of paranoia, the player who imparted the spirit of the play," to Martha McCutcheon for the part of 'Agnes' "Who shall hereafter be referred to as 'Saint.'"

WOMEN'S UNION

After an innovation has become well established in our society, we are much too likely to take it for granted. This is as true of our student government as it is of society in general. We take advantage of the opportunities it offers; but seldom do we wonder how it came to be, or thank those responsible for its continued existence.

Women, although the recognition of their rights in society is still a fairly recent accomplishment, are as prone to this oversight as are men. Witness the inclination toward lethargy among members of the Women's Union of McGill.

Although there was a Women's Student Society at McGill before the 1932-33 session, it was not until then that women were permitted representation on the university's student governing body—and they had been studying here since 1884. Back in 1929, the Students' Council (men only) had considered an amalgamation of the men's and women's Societies, whereby the women would have at least one representative on the Students' Council. But the report of their committee was negative.

Quoting from this report: "At the present time the policy adopted is that of ignoring them (the women) as far as the Students' Society is concerned, and recognizing them in subsidiary societies." In spite of the efforts for recognition on the part of the women, this state of affairs continued until the 1932-33 session, when, with the girl who is now Mrs. C. M. Russell as president, the M.W.S.S. became the McGill Women's Union, and co-eds had representation on the student government at last.

Their purpose, in addition to that stated above, was to consolidate the activities of women students under one group, and eventually to erect a Union building. The former has become a reality—but the home of the Union remains within the walls of R.V.C. For its rooms—two offices, a lounge, and the President's quarters—the Union pays rent to R.V.C. The lounge and offices are furnished by the Union; the chestfield suites, lamps, study tables, and magazines of the lounge provide comfort for all members of which those not residing in R.V.C. receive the most benefit.

President Joan Radley—whose mother was president of the M.W.S.S. in 1923—presides over the weekly Executive meetings. Each month a Round Table Conference is held, at which representatives from the various women's clubs, societies, residences and undergraduate societies have an opportunity to talk over matters with the Executive. The M.W.S.S. president is a member of the Women's Union Executive.

During the recent war, the Union sponsored courses in A.R.P., First Aid, Hospital Technicians, etc.; its peace-time activities, naturally, cover a wider field of activity. Two publications, "Miss McGill" and a handbook for freshmen, are brought out by the Union, while such activities as Freshette Reception, Gen Nights, Social Service, Buffet Suppers, and Fashion Parades all originate in that small office in the basement of R.V.C.

So it is not by chance that women at McGill are recognized to the extent they are—it is by the efforts of those interested. The recognition will increase or decrease, according to the amount of work which each member of the Women's Union—i.e., each co-ed—puts into it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Editor
McGill Daily.

Through the medium of the Daily I take this opportunity to thank all those who elected me to the office of Representative from the Undergraduates of the Women's Union to the S.E.C. and Vice-President of the Women's Union.

I promise to do my best to fulfill the trust they have placed in me. Sincerely yours,
ISABEL GIBB, B.A. 3.

May I take this opportunity to thank all those who supported and voted for me in the recent S.E.C. elections, and also to express publicly my thanks to the members of the executives of the McGill and Dawson E.U.S. and Dawson Students' Council for their kind cooperation.

I would like to extend my congratulations and best wishes to Mr. Colin McCallum, and to ask him to consider the points in my platform in view of its large support as shown in the voting.
Eric A. VALERE, Eng. 3.

May I thank those who put my name up for election as Engineering Representative to the S.E.C. and assure the engineers of my wholehearted efforts while representing them on the S.E.C. during the coming year.

Yours truly,
COLIN MCCALLUM,

P.C.

The Editor, McGill Daily.
On behalf of the executive of the McGill Progressive Conservative Club, I wish to state that neither the executive, nor the members of the Club, either individually or collectively, are responsible for the production and distribution of the pamphlet entitled "Attention L.P.P. Supporters" which was widely circulated on this campus last Thursday.

This statement is necessary in view of the aspersions cast on the members of our Club by the executive of the L.P.P. Club in a letter printed in last Friday's "Daily". This letter states that only "those interested in the passing of the P.C. Bill" would benefit from this pamphlet. It seems to me quite obvious that "those interested in the passing of the P.C. Bill" did not benefit at all.

Rather, it appears to me quite strange that the L.P.P., against whom this pamphlet was supposedly directed, should have been able so effectively to turn the occasion to their own benefit and use it to smear the Progressive Conservative Club on this campus. The pamphlet was drawn up in such a way as to make it appear obvious that it was not the work of the L.P.P., and the only benefit to be gained from this would be to draw out those students on this campus who are not in sympathy with such tactics, and who would therefore vote against the Bill.

I, and the executive of the Club, wish to strongly deplore such action. Practices of this kind are prejudicial to all parties, as they tend to lower the tone of debate in the Model Parliament and to create disgust with politics at McGill. Yours sincerely,
G. G. TURNER,
President, Progressive Conservative Club of McGill University.

PUBLICATION

The second edition of the University of Manitoba's student publication, "Creative Campus," will be out early in January. The magazine is edited, and contributed to, by undergraduates on the Manitoba campus. Copies may be obtained by sending 35c to Alvin, Goldman, Editor of "Creative Campus," U.M. S.U. offices, Winnipeg, Manitoba. The magazine made its initial appearance early last winter and has enjoyed favorable comments from students, professors and editors of literary magazines. This year's edition contains material of an even higher calibre than its predecessor.

Canadian Paintings Now on Exhibition

The paintings of two well-known Montreal artists, Louis Muhlstock and Eric Goldberg, are now on display at the Art Association of Montreal. Their works have been exhibited in many parts of the world, notably in Paris, New York, and Berlin. Both artists are widely travelled, and Goldberg makes use of many themes which he encountered on his journeys through Europe. Muhlstock, on the other hand, prefers subjects with a Montreal flavour.

Eric Goldberg was born in Berlin in the year 1890. When he was sixteen he went to Paris, where he studied under Laurens, Lefebvre, and Robert-Fleury, at the Ecole des Beaux-Arts and at the Academie Julian. He also studied in Berlin under Corinth, and later he taught painting in that city. His Palestinian background was obtained when he was in charge of an arts and crafts school in Jerusalem for four years.

Mr. Goldberg's paintings seem to be flashes from the past, in which a particular scene is caught in one brief instant, and is represented with delicacy and imagination. Several of his paintings show the people of Gaspe at netminding and fishing, with a great deal of feeling and atmosphere. Gaspe Girl is especially well done, with much warmth, sincerity, and beauty. The various French, Palestinian, and Spanish scenes are represented with intense charm, and with a rare sensitivity.

Louis Muhlstock was born at Narajow, Galicia, Poland in the year 1904, and when he was seven years old he came to Canada. He studied at the Art Association of Montreal under William Brymner, G. Horne Russell, and Maurice Cullen, as well as at the Ecole des Beaux-Arts at Montreal, but his studies were completed in Paris. He is a member of the Canadian Group of Painters, the Contemporary Arts Society, and the Canadian Society of Graphic Art.

Among Muhlstock's Montreal scenes on exhibition are those of De Bullion and St. Dominique streets, as well as several of Mount Royal during spring and autumn. The realism of his works seems to make it possible to step right into one of his paintings and to experience his themes which he presents in a straight forward manner, with vivid colouring.

Empty Rooms is a Muhlstock painting in which there is a fascinating play of colour and shadows, and which leaves you with the impression of having moved in and out of the empty rooms. Although Muhlstock's paintings do include such interiors, as well as landscapes, city scenes, and buildings, he constantly returns to people for his subjects, and in his character studies, he captures the deep spiritual element of human life.

Also on exhibition are chalk, Chinese brush, and sepia drawing of Muhlstock, many of them showing animals in a simple, but highly understanding form. These drawings also include many character studies to which Muhlstock constantly returns because of his interest in people.

The small boy whose photograph you see here is enjoying his first glimpse ever of a decorated Christmas tree. In this he is no different from thousands of other small boys and girls, for whom Christmas is an exciting and happy time, filled with presents, candies, crackers, cake and all the other joys of the season.

There are, however, in this city many many boys and girls to whom Christmas is no different from any other day, who sit down to a scant meal, with none of the treats that go to make up happy childhood memories. Last Christmas several students

Contest for Original Chamber Music

Two hundred and fifty dollars will be given as first prize to winning candidate in this competition—second and third prizes to be announced later.

The competition is open to all Canadians and also to those who have already applied for Canadian citizenship. The winning composition will receive premiere performance by the McGill String Quartet under the auspices of the McGill Chamber Music Society during their regular concert series at McGill University.

The terms are as follows: The composition (which must not have received previous performance) may be written for string trio or string quartet, with or without one or two additional instruments, and should be of not less than twenty minutes duration. Jury will be selected by Douglas Clarke, Dean of the Faculty of Music, McGill University, in conjunction with Alexander Brott, representing the McGill Quartet.

Final date for submission of scores has been set for April 1st, 1949. These must be addressed to the McGill Chamber Music Society, c/o McGill University Conservatorium of Music, 677 Sherbrooke St. West, Montreal, Que. Examination of scores will take place in April, 1949. Winning composer will be notified immediately following the final decision. Further detailed information may be obtained from your nearest music centre.

The English Department Presents

The Beautiful People

by Sy Yasin

After completing a lecture tour in California, a noted American author once said: "... perhaps it is due to the invigorating climate, but the behaviour of Californians is different from that of other Americans..." and we have to accept them as they are." To those who found William Saroyan's "The Beautiful People" unintelligible last Friday night, this statement might serve as an explanation for both the playwright and his characters.

Among those who claim to understand Saroyan, however, there will be some who would object to the treatment the director gave to the play. By presenting it as a comedy, they would argue, much of the meaning and the message the author intended to convey to his audience is lost. To this argument one might well ask: "What meaning and what message?"

"The Beautiful People" is one of those rare plays which can be presented effectively in several ways, and the interpretation given to it by director Elmer Hall is as good as any other that we are likely to see. The proof of this is that the performance of the play on Friday night was entirely credible.

This is not to say that the production did not have its faults. I found for instance, the idiotic behaviour of Owen Webster, when contrasted with the more subtle lunacy of Agnes and Jonah, distracting. The pace of the play was slow and unsustained—indeed it all but collapsed before the final curtain. But when I remember the moments of highly amusing comedy, the intense pathos and the fine individual performances, these faults become secondary.

Honours for the best acting of the evening go to Leonard Ashley. Mr. Ashley as the meek, henpecked William Prim, showed a thorough understanding of his role, exploited all the advantages offered by the part to its fullest, and carefully avoided slipping into burlesque. Martha McCutcheon and Hugh Taschereau, were very effective together, giving their roles as Agnes and Jonah a quiet dignity, and Penny Hay made a very real "little old lady in the summertime". The entire company was well cast as to type, something very difficult to achieve in student productions.

McGILL TAKES POLO CHAMPIONSHIP FROM VARSITY

Sportviews

By Bob Bornstein

There's no denying that the Redmen looked bad losing to Toronto Friday night and it is not intended to make excuses for the team. Nevertheless there are certain factors to be considered before condemning anyone connected with the hockey squad. Because they have no rink, the Redmen are forced to practice at the Forum where it is quite a feat to secure time for McGill, what with the Canadiens and Royals using the ice. Then too, such attractions as wrestling and boxing prevent use of the Forum rink, and when the Ice Follies or Ice Capades come to town, the Redmen must seek ice either at Lachine Arena or Verdun Auditorium.

This scarcity of ice plus the fact that members of the team are compelled to attend lectures, a fact that may surprise many people, make it extremely difficult for Coach Dave Campbell to have regular and successful practices.

It should be remembered that both Toronto and Queen's have their own rinks and can hold daily sessions if they so desire. U. of M., although playing home games at Verdun Auditorium, has practically all the advantages of a home team, in that the ice at Verdun is available most of the time.

Now we're not saying that McGill has lost two games out of three this season strictly because the Forum is always booked up. In other years the team has faced the same difficulties and won championships. The members of this year's edition of the Clan Campbell are not making any excuses for their showing.

The complaints being made in this column are those of the writer who feels that if McGill had a rink of its own, the Redmen would run away from the rest of the league this season and in many more.

This beef is not being dragged out just because the Redmen were beaten by the Blues and are not doing well. Certainly Daily sports-writers are hardened to losing since McGill has never won any glory on the athletic field. It is merely a complaint which has prevailed for many years, and since the Redmen are down right now, this seems as good a time as any to bring it up.

The week-end happenings in the intercollegiate loop proved in large measure two important points: 1) That Toronto isn't half as good as previously thought. 2)

That U of M looks like the major threat to the Redmen on the basis of their early-season rush and the victory over Varsity Saturday.

So far in the schedule, the Redmen have been unimpressive. However, there are nine games left to play and anything can happen. McGill will come back after the holidays with a number of exhibition games tucked away and should be ready for a sustained drive which may well carry the old Red and White to the top.

Rocky Robillard will be given every chance to show his stuff in the coming exhibitions and should he come through, he would boost the chances of the Redmen considerably. Sandy Sanderson is being shifted to the defence and this move should bolster the rearguard division.

Fellows like Bob Payette, Charlie Lafontaine, and Bobby Russell will most certainly benefit from the experience gained in the games scheduled for the holidays. The holiday exhibition tour will carry the Redmen to Boston and Lake Placid where they are slated to meet the Harvard and Lake Placid aggregations.

A very encouraging sign is the glaring weakness shown by Varsity in the game here. True, they won, but Ace Bailey's sextet is hardly the speedy and powerful squad of last year when Kryzanowski and Co. swept all before them.

The Reds have started slowly but in the opener against Les Carabins, the verdict could have gone either way; in the Queen's clash they were good enough to win; and in the Toronto contest, they got a bad one out of their respective systems. So again we implore, don't give up on the Redmen.

SPORTSHOTS

Vic Obeck asserted himself and made clear his stand on athletic scholarships at McGill during his program "Fanfare" Sunday noon. He stated that as long as the CIAU prohibits this practice in intercollegiate sports, he will never submit to it. Obeck does this despite the fact that it is fairly evident that all the other Universities in the CIAU indulge in the forbidden practice. . . . Lefty Berger looks like the best prospect on the Red cage crew. Berger throws passes like a pro and shows uncanny court sense while in action.

McGill Squash Team Loses To Williams

By TERRY DION

Athletics Night, Sat. Dec. 11, saw McGill's squash team go down in defeat at the hands of the American Williams College Invaders. The over-all score being 7 to 2.

Ham and Red Quain the die-hard backbone of the McGill team fought valiantly; the games being undecided until the bitter end. Ham lost 3-1 to R. Allen of Williams, while Red lost by one point in the fifth game to another of the determined Williamsites — F. Donnelly, the score: 3-2.

Pete Haller snatched one of the two McGill wins from G. Goodrich, 3-0, by means of his vicious cross-court plays. Jim Digby garnered the other McGill count in a 3-2 game with G. Kneass.

In reviewing the above results, it must be remembered that three of the games lost were extremely close, and that the McGill team is composed entirely of first and second year men, with at least three more playing years ahead of them. Hence it is to be concluded that the future of this particular team, is to be rosy.

The Williams team were playing under difficulty; strange yacouris, strange city, strange audience. This, did not however, stunt their style to any appreciable degree, as evidenced by the score. The Williams 'squashers', a well-balanced crew showed a steadiness rarely found on a team.

The individual scores are as follows: 1. McGill, Ham Quain—to-Williams, R. Allen 3-1. 2. McGill, A. Kendall—to-Williams, Bill Mikkell 3-1. 3. McGill, G. Goodall—to-Williams, R. Thomas 3-0. 4. McGill, M. Measures—to-Williams, J. Dresser 3-0. 5. McGill, Red Quain—to-Williams, F. Donnelly 3-2.

Braves Open Puck Season Fri. at Verdun

McGill hockey fans will get their first glimpse of the 1948-49 edition of the Intermediate Intercollegiate Hockey team when the Braves take on Sir George William's College in an exhibition tilt on Friday.

The game will be played at Verdun Auditorium commencing at 2:00 p.m. and as Sir George is also in the league, the contest will serve as a preview to what "Gus" Fan can expect from the Braves.

Coach Warren Chippendale will have three and maybe four holdovers from last year, in the persons of Kimberley, rugged rearguard, Kemp and Knubley, both left wingers and a doubtful starter, Robillard, who starred on last year's team. The reason Robillard is uncertain quantity is that he is slated to turn out with the parent team, and is pretty certain to play in Boston against Harvard.

Rounding out the defence will be Galt, John Murphy and O'Neil, formerly of the Inkerman Rockets. Backing up the defence, Coach Chippendale has to choose from Sheldon and Magor who goalied for the McGill Juniors last year.

On the forward wall, Bill Duke of Westhill, Hunter Wilson, Pete Constable, and John Q. Murphy of Port Arthur Junior fame, will patrol center while on the wings will be the afore-mentioned Knubley and Kemp, with Taylor, Hayward, Red Quain and Paul MacDonald.

The game will be the last meeting of the teams before the schedule starts in January. The loop will consist of MacDonald, Sir George William's, Dawson, McGill, and a newcomer to Intermediate Hockey circles, Loyola.

However, Coach Chippendale wishes to stress that anyone who is interested in trying out for the team will have a chance to do so after the holidays,

WATER BABIES — THE CHAMPS

Pictured above is the McGill water polo team which did the University proud by regaining the senior intercollegiate championship from Varsity by whipping Queen's, 6-1, in Kingston, Saturday night. This is the twenty-fourth time in the past 31 years that McGill has won the Hershorn Trophy, emblematic of the senior loop's title. The big guns for the Red and White in their glorious triumph were Don Waller and Art Earle. Hats off to a McGill champion, the eighth wonder of the world!

Red Intermediate Cagers Beat Macdonald 36-34 in Overtime

Three minutes can be a long time in a basketball game. Ron Rutherford's Indians proved this to be true Saturday night by coming from behind and winning, 36-34, in an overtime match against Macdonald College, Saturday night. Trailing 31-23 with only three minutes left on the clock, the Indians finally started to click and show full teamwork. Stewart, Bembridge, Thomas, Brown and Segall tied up the Macdonald squad and with seconds to go, Stewart rapped in the tying basket.

Play was close and hard during the overtime stanza, but Thomas netted twice with Macdonald held to one basket and a free shot.

The game started slowly with the score 14-10 at the half. Macdonald tended to hold the margin of play throughout, but tended to be ineffective around the basket, relying on long shots. Stewart with 14 and Thomas with six were the leading scorers for the Indians with Bembridge an effective playmaker. Scrivens with 10 and Cashman with seven were top scorers for Macdonald.

Lineups: McGill: Stewart 14, Kurtz 2, Schumacher 1, Bembridge 3, Baker 2, Thomas 6, Brown 2, Segall 4, White, Garfinkle 2. Total 36.

Macdonald: Cashman 7, Sorley 2, Dilubio 5, Davidson 6, Edward 3, Robb, Scriven 10, McKay 1. Total 34.

Officials: G. W. Buck, H. Birdie.

SCHUSS . . .

Let it snow! Let it snow! . . . oh, please, please let it snow! Less than two weeks and all ski enthusiasts will be heading north, but the books will really take a thumping unless that very essential white stuff begins to cover the ground, and quick. However, the fact that there is no snow does not seem to dampen the talk going around about schussing, and lists are up in RVC already . . . a week-end at Ste. Eleven girls can have fun and skiing during a week-end at this RVC house, and it only takes two dollars for the week-end, to be paid when you sign up on the lists in the Phys. Ed. The Red and White was upheld by the shooting of Louise Macfarlane, and starring on the guard line were Pat Wallace and Robert Tyler. On the YWCA, showing outstanding play and scoring were Meredith Nixon, Jean Machan, and Bobby Fisher. The same night McGill's Number Two Junior Team outplayed Sir

Locals Drop Gaels 6-1 at Kingston To Take Laurels

Led by their "big guns" Don Waller and Art Earle, McGill regained the Senior Intercollegiate Water Polo championship from Varsity, by defeating Queen's 6-1 in Kingston on Saturday night. This is the twenty-fourth time in the past thirty-one years that McGill has won the Hershorn Trophy, emblematic of the Senior loop's Championship.

Queen's aided by some new players from Hamilton "flooded" their best squad in years. The game was actually much closer than the score indicates, and had not the Redmen played one of their best games this year, the outcome would have been very different.

Tonight the Redmen meet the powerful, all French National Club in the city finals. The series will be a two-game, total goal affair. The game will be played in the Legion Hall Pool on Mountain Street. Game time is 8:15 and all spectators are welcome.

During the first quarter, the Gaels held a wide margin of play due to their faster swimming and aggressive play. Just before the end of the period, Earle took a nice relay pass from Young and sent a long shot into the upper corner of the net to give McGill a 1-0 lead.

Both teams remained scoreless from one end of the pool to the other and had the crowd of over five hundred fans on their feet on countless occasions. Gray Austin in the McGill nets made many spectacular stops on labelled shots.

At the minute in the third stanza, Walter scored on a fancy play with Earle, in which the ball was passed back and forth three times before drawing the defenseman out of position and giving Walter a chance to last Kennedy in the Gaels' nets.

At 4:30 "One Way" Corrigan picked up the ball from a scrim in front of Queen's net and scored to put the Redmen out in front by 3-0.

Walters scored two quick goals in the fourth quarter to put the game "on ice" for McGill.

With but two minutes to go Austin had his chance for a shutout (Continued on Page 4)

Redmen Meet Sherbrooke In Exhibition

By BOB BORNSTEIN

Dave Campbell takes his Hockey Redmen to Sherbrooke tonight to meet the Sherbrooke St. Francis Club of the QSHL for a benefit game in connection with the McGill Fund. The Saints under the capable guidance of Ivan Dugre, are one of the powerhouses of the Senior Group and should have no trouble beating the Redmen. The contest should prove valuable to the Redmen because of the experience gained in playing the formidable Saints.

Making the trip with the team are goalie Jack Gelineau, rear-guarders Goose Gosselin, Doug Heron, Syd May, Jack Hennessy, and Sandy Sanderson. The forwards will include Tom Hale, Reg Sinclair, Rocky Robillard, just recently brought up from the intermediates, Phila Henry, Ross Parsons, and Dave Hackett. Also on hand will be Jimmy Atkinson, Johnny Brough, Cy Biegler, Charlie Lafontaine, and Bob Payette.

The Sherbrooke squad which has the best power-play in the Q.S.H.L. will give Gelineau a busy night in the McGill nets. They'll be able to show such fine forwards as Torpedo Tony Demers, Ad Cole, Gilles Dube, the Carmichael brothers, Herb and Ossie, Armond Bourdon, and Kelly Burnett.

Manning the cage for the Saints will be Paul Leclerc, the popular goalie who has rapidly become rated as a smart keeper of the twine. On the defence, Dugre has Cliff Goupille, George Roy, Maurice Robidas, and Bill Heindl.

AROUND THE CIRCUIT... Reggie Sinclair and Gordie Gosselin are co-captains of the Redmen this season... The Campbell Clan had better put on a more impressive showing against Sherbrooke than they did in the Varsity game, or else they'll need some adding machines out there to keep track of the score... Phil Henry became the top scorer of the Redmen by adding an assist to his point total on Friday.

Henry now has four points, made up of two goals and as many assists... The next McGill intercollegiate home game is slated for Jan. 14th when U. of M. Carabins come to the Forum... During the holidays the Redmen fly to Boston to take on the Harvard Crimson and then engage in a series of exhibition games at Lake Placid, New York... Ari Therrien's U. of M. squad moved into a commanding lead in the intercollegiate loop by whipping Varsity Saturday night at Verdun Auditorium 5-3. Georges Emblem and Claude Guerlin each notched two goals to the Carabins while Andre Charest, the league's finest center, accounting for the other. Rich Howson, hero of the McGill game scored, for Toronto... Bobby Fryday, the rampaging winger of the Montreal Royals, was a guest in the press box during the McGill-Varsity game Friday. Bob used to play on the same team as Rich Howson of the Blues, and recognized him immediately when he skated out on the ice.

shattered as Hawkins deflected a shot passed him into the corner of the net. A minute later Earle completed the scoring on a pass from Walter to make the final score McGill 6, Queen's 1.

As a team, the Redmen played their best game by far this year. Austin, who made some 35 stops during the game, was greatly aided by the fine clearing and breaking of the guards, Young and Dickstein. Up forward the passing and checking of Cameron, Walter, Corrigan and Earle brought applause from the crowd on many occasions.

Taber, Hawkins and Veidenheimer were the pick of the Gaels. Before leaving the pool the Redmen threw Coach Don Rose in clothes and all.

to develop and expand towards the higher self innate in him. The truly civilized man under such conditions requires full access to his world, his fellow man, and to their accumulated stores of knowledge. These he will obtain through transport and communication, and through books.

He concluded his remarks with the statement that: "All these things are in the nature of progress, and all are due to science. If the environment in which we live is such as to free us from adversity, and to make possible a rich and free life, to that extent, modern science has given us progress."

Choral Society Opens Concert Ticket Sales

Tickets for the McGill Choral Society Christmas Concert will go on sale throughout the campus today. This concert is reportedly the most ambitious undertaken by the Society to date. The advance sale of tickets portends a record attendance for this year.

The concert comes at the conclusion of ten weeks intensive rehearsing by the group, which now numbers more than 250 voices. Dress rehearsal for the recital will take place at MacDonald College on Wednesday evening and this will be followed by a transcription, made for the CBC, to be broadcast on Sunday the 19th.

The programme to be presented by the choir at the "Sing At Christmas" concert will be divided into two sections. Before intermission the music to be done will provide a choral setting for the age-old Christmas Story. Sam Valtchewell known to Montreal radio audiences—will trace the life of Jesus from the time of the angel's visit to Mary until the flight from Jerusalem, while the choir will provide suitable musical background throughout the monologue. In this portion of the concert McGill Choral Society enthusiasts will recognize such numbers as the "Cradle Song of the Virgin," "Farefare for Christmas Day" and "A Babe Holds Court."

The final portion of the programme will include a choral version of Tchaikovsky's Nutcracker Suite. This suite has never before been presented in Montreal in its Choral form. The choral setting of this famous work marks the climax of a number of very successful similar ventures on the part of the Fred Waring organization. The presentation by the Choral Society last year of "A Night Before Christmas" also arranged by the Waring Group was very well received and

PASSENGERS WANTED

Vincent Gledralitis will be driving to Connecticut December 21 or 22. He has room for three more passengers. Phone LA. 4351, Monday, Tuesday or Thursday between 5 and 6 for details on route and time. Reasonable detours will be made. Deadline for offers—Thursday.

"THE FALL OF THE CITY"

The final rehearsal and cutting of the production "The Fall of the City" will take place at 8:15 tonight, December 14, in the studios of station CKAC. Be on time and bring your scripts. Remember tonight is operation "Murray."

POLISH CLUB

There will be a general meeting of the club on Friday, 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the Union New Room. The club is being reorganized this year and the membership is open to all students interested.

ENGINEERING DEBATE

On Tuesday, December 14, the engineers, represented by Ed. Gauthier and Herb Pragnell will take the affirmative against Professors W. Bruce and Mordell. The topic of the debate is resolved that "Canada should institute some form of compulsory military training."

This debate will be the last one before Christmas. Engineers and those interested may bring their lunch to the debate, which will be held in Room 33, Eng. Bldg. at 1 o'clock Tuesday.

S.A.C. MEETING CHANGED

The S.A.C. meeting will be held from 4 to 6 o'clock Tuesday at the Currie Gymnasium and NOT in the Board Room of the Union as previously announced.

S.C.M. SERVICES

There will be a series of worship services from 8:30 to 8:50 a.m. at the S.C.M. House, 3574 University street as a preparation for the Christmas Session led by Reverend J. Bishop. This series will end on Friday, Dec. 17.

FINE ART SOCIETY

Mr. Orson Wheeler, A.R.C.A., well-known Montreal sculptor, will be the guest speaker at the lecture sponsored by the Fine Arts Society on Tuesday, Dec. 14, at 1 p.m. in Room 70 of the Arts Building. His topic will be the history of the manufacture of stained glass windows. Everybody is welcome.

McGILL MASONIC CLUB

On Dec. 1 the McGill Masonic Club paid a visit to Champlain Lodge in Champlain, N.Y. The club members were welcomed by the Worshipful Master of the Lodge and then witnessed some very fine work by its officers and members. To most of the McGill Masons it was an entirely new approach to an old theme and was consequently all the more interesting.

The meeting was followed by refreshments served in the lodge room. The McGill group was most hospitably entertained. Stuart Cameron, the president of the club, expressed the thanks of all.

The next meeting of the Masonic Club will be held in the Music Room of the Union on Thursday, December 16 at 6 o'clock. Supper it is felt that this year's selection will prove even more popular. The choir, this year, is once again under the direction of Gifford Mitchell. Accompaniment for the group will be provided by Miss Doris Killam, who will be remembered as a member of the Doris Killam, Buddy Pane piano duo.

Dawson Sports

Last night at Orlick's Gym the Dawson Senior M.B.L. entry lost their second tilt to the Grenadier Guards 49-31. Age and experience of Steve Armstrong's squad seemed to be the deciding factor as they controlled the play up and down the floor.

The first half opened with the Guard's breaking fast to take an early lead of 6-0. Two foul shots and a field goal brought the Red and Blue up to 6-4, but the Guards made it 11-4 quickly. Dawson dropped in two more while the Guards sank four set and one free shot to make the score as the period ended, with the Guards on top of a 20-8 score.

Fred Bridel was high scorer for the night for the Guards with 14 points while Walter followed him with 9. Nickerson, Kikolaidis, Edwards and Seimerf each accounted for 5 for the Red and Blue. Fouling was prevalent throughout the game as each team committed 20 fouls. McFall of the Guards and Seimerf of Dawson were each benched for five personal fouls.

Last Friday night the Dawson Senior M.B.L. entry edged out the Plattsburgh State Teachers College 50-49 with a thrilling last second victory. In the opener, against the Plattsburgh J.V. squad, the Dawson Int. C.I.A.U. team lost out.

The comparison between the Cardinal and the Red Dean is most unfortunate. When did the British Government as such make any difficulties in granting an exit visa to the Red Dean, and for that matter to any of its nationals? The readers may remember the Cardinal's difficulties in that respect last year when a special invitation to the Marian Congress in Ottawa had been extended to him. And that was a PEACE CONGRESS. Other Hungarians find it next to impossible to obtain exit visas at all. When they do get one, it is only valid for a couple of months and for travel to a few privileged countries. That compares rather unfavorably with the conditions existing in our country where a passport allows for travel to all countries (including Russia) for five years and where the only restriction is on the amount of money one can take out.

Religion and Schools
I am told that if I had taken the trouble I could have looked through a schoolbook myself. I did! There were not enough texts to go around the class, hence instructions were given verbally, or out of the old texts. I admired the new ones as I admire our newest primers when comparing them to those of years gone by. Don't you remember, Mr. Horn, the teacher herself telling us about the religious instruction given in the schools? How she, replying to a direct question, stated that before nationalization each child received four hours of religious instruction per week, two hours from the teacher and two from the visiting pastor, priest, or minister. Don't you recall her stating that now no religious instruction is given by the teachers? What do you think happens in those towns where there are many schools and classes but few pastors? It is estimated that approximately 600 Catholic and Protestant clergymen are in prison.

Freedom of Employment
Since a greater amount of goods can be produced collectively and by planned economic production, socialist Hungary does not stop at restricting man's liberty in carrying out its program. I also appreciate the good things in life. The chocolate milk, I praise, but the political ideology which takes away the freedom of expression of the people drinking it, I deplore.

ciate the good things in life. The chocolate milk, I praise, but the political ideology which takes away the freedom of expression of the people drinking it, I deplore.

Surely Mr. Horn, I shouldn't have to remind you of the procedure applied to young graduating engineers, technicians and doctors. The engineer is sent to a certain project. The technician is ordered to a certain project. The young doctor will do his internship in a certain hospital then wait for instructions to report to a certain place. What of human rights?

Even more serious than this is the policy of the government to seize the mind of the youth and mould it according to its desire. Were not the same methods used in Hitler Germany? State sponsored organizations attract the youth, and the very young, by a wide range of activities which are in themselves commendable. I wish that we had youth programs in Canada that could compare to what I saw in Hungary, but without the one-sided political indoctrination that is fed to the Hungarian youth. All over Eastern Europe, young people in work brigades, in training and recreation camps, are constantly being preached HATRED against capitalism and the bourgeoisie. It was repeated to us even in the parting speech of the official M.I.N.S.Z.

Mr. Horn, you challenge me to a debate on Hungary, point by point. I decline. A thing like this does not belong in a debate since it would degenerate into a clash of personalities. You have had much practise at public speaking, have studied the art of persuasion; I, on the other hand, have never spoken in public and really doubt whether I could. In a debate you would be in your element; I would not.

However I am prepared to meet you, issue by issue, through the medium of this column which affords the student body plenty of opportunity to study our respective points of view.

Flags and Flushes
"It won't be long now" is the hopeful tune of thousands of McGill skiers as they hopefully scan the all too clear skies for signs of the elusive snow flakes.

Last year they were skiing at St. Sauveur on Nov. 26 with six inches of fluffy powder, but so far this season the only skiing has been for a few hardy trail blazers, willing to make the long trip to the top of the Devil's River Run on the upper reaches of Mount Tremblant.

The Laurentian Zone has inaugurated a new policy this season with regard to Zone cards. Skiers applying for Class C cards will be required to pass qualifying tests at the beginning of the year unless the officials consider them sufficiently skillful on the basis of past performance. Skiers holding B and A cards last year will of course retain their rating. According to Paul Ramage, racing chairman, Bennett, Creighton, Dequire, Droz, Fisher, Hutchison, Lindsay, Munro Ramsay, Rolland and Williamson of the M.O.C. are at present eligible for C cards. Anybody else hoping to ski competitively must attend the qualifying races on January 9 at St. Sauveur.

Application for Zone cards can be made at the athletic office on payment of $2.00 of which half goes to the MOC for some obscure reason.

Both senior and intermediate teams have a heavy racing schedule laid on. The seniors will compete in the McGill Winter Carnival and have also been invited to Dartmouth, Middlebury, and St. Lawrence as well as having received a very tempting offer from the University of Alberta Ski Club to race at Banff on Feb. 6 and 7. Report on an Intern Placement Scheme

by J. Bernard Costello
Senior Caml Representative

There has long existed among students applying for internships and among hospitals, a feeling of dissatisfaction at the existing scheme of intern placement. The law of supply and demand worked in the favor of the large teaching hospitals and thus permitted them to be autonomous in their regulation of intern selection; whereas, in non-teaching centers the situation was reversed and they had to adopt other means of their own to obtain their quota.

The American hospitals were the first to make any move towards a uniform intern placement scheme and the "American Plan" outlined below was unanimously adopted. In Canada appointments were made by different hospitals at different times and the unfortunate student had some difficulty knowing whether to accept one while still waiting to hear from other hospitals. In order to overcome this, C.A.M.S.I. approached the Canadian Hospital Council and the Canadian Medical Association with a view to setting up a Canadian scheme similar to the "American Plan." This was agreed upon by the hospitals and all the deans of medical colleges were notified of the plan. As all present graduating classes know this plan was not adhered to by some hospitals—the law of supply and demand again coming into play.

At the National Council of C. A. M. S. I. it was the opinion of the Council that a uniform system of intern placement for all colleges would be advantageous. The relative merits of two existing plans were discussed. These are the "American Plan" now functioning in U.S.A. and the C.I.B. (Canadian Intern Board) now functioning at U. of T. Both the C.H.C. and the C.M.A. are in favor of a uniform plan and are willing to support C.A.M.S.I. in its efforts to establish one on a national scale.

The medical students of McGill and other universities must study these two plans and make their decision in favor of one, in order that C.A.M.S.I. may take steps to inaugurate the plan on a national scale as soon as possible. Below is a summary of each plan. They will be discussed and the matter presented for decision at the meeting of the M.U.S. tonight, Tuesday, Dec. 14th.

AMERICAN PLAN

(1) Applications and credentials to be submitted only through the Dean's office to hospitals, with the date for filing applications and release of credentials by the medical schools set at Oct. 15th. Credentials ordinarily will consist of an executed application blank and a letter from the Dean but do not preclude such letters from members of the faculty as they may wish to write, unsolicited by the candidate.

(2) Applicants may visit hospitals and be interviewed by hospital intern committees, but the hospital administration shall not commit the hospital nor obligate the applicant or potential applicants before Nov. 15th.

(3) No intern appointments shall be made prior to Nov. 15th to applicants who are members of the senior class in medical school. Hospitals may decline an applicant at any time.

(4) Applicants shall accept or reject hospital appointments before midnight of Nov. 18th.

(5) These regulations shall apply only to undergraduate medical students who have not completed the fourth year of their medical course.

In Canada as you know, up until this year, there has been no uniformity in acceptance dates for internships and a Canadian student receiving an American appointment on Nov. 15th was apt to accept it as he had no assurance that his application to a Canadian hospital would be favorably considered.

You will note that in the system adopted in the U.S.A., the deans of the medical schools play a fundamental role in its operation. As the applicants for appointments will be still undergraduates at the time, they take action, it is likely that similar responsibilities would have to be assumed by the Deans if the system were adopted in Canada.

CANADIAN INTERN BOARD (C.I.B.)

(1) Each medical student will apply for an internship to the administrator or the intern committee of the hospitals, in one of which he desires to intern. All applications must be made to the hospitals before Oct. 15th.

(2) The medical student will enter on a Student Form (supplied by C.I.B.) the names of the hospitals to which he has applied for an internship in the order of his preference and send the form to the C.I.B. before Oct. 15th.

(3) The hospital administrator or intern committee will rank the applicants in the following two groups, from an investigation of the applications, personal interviews, hospital examinations, letters of recommendation or any other data that may be available:

Group 1—Those that the hospital definitely desires as interns;
Group 2—Those that the hospital will appoint should any applicants in Group 1 be eliminated, i.e., alternates or second choices, listed in the order of preference.

The hospital will enter the names of applicants in these two groups on Forms A & B respectively (to be supplied by C.I.B.) and send the forms to this board on or before Nov. 5th.

(4) The C.I.B. will examine Student Form and Hospital Forms A & B, endorse each hospital list of applicants in Group 1, if no other hospital has placed the same applicant in Group 1. In the case of those applicants which have been placed in Group 1 by two or more hospitals, the C.I.B. will endorse the hospital list in which the applicant has placed the hospital highest in order on his preference list on Student Form and will delete his name from all other hospital lists, thus creating vacancies for alternates in these hospitals.

The C.I.B. will then fill these vacancies from those applications who have been placed in Group 2 on Form A submitted by the respective hospitals, and the same method followed as above. By this arrangement the hospitals will still control the filling of any gaps on their selected list of interns. The C.I.B. will continue this process of dovetailing the hospitals' choice of applicants and the students' choice of hospitals until the lists of choice have been exhausted.

(5) The C.I.B. will send to each hospital the list of interns as it has been revised by the above procedure by Nov. 15th, and the hospital will notify the applicants of their appointment as intern as soon as possible.
